“...the mouth can become a source of disease or pathological processes affecting other parts of the body.”
Former U.S. Surgeon General David Satcher PhD, MD

“Do not ever underestimate the critical role dental health professionals play in the overall health of your patients, even in saving their lives.”
Charles Whitney, MD

Why We “Say Ahh...”

“Say Ahh...” is the world’s first documentary on the dramatic role of oral disease on the rest of the body. This one hour film takes an informative, patient-friendly approach to explaining the mouth-body connection. The film follows the true stories of six families as they discover the real-life impact that their oral health is having on their lives. The message: Healthy Mouth, Healthy Body.

The “Say Ahh...” event is recommended for all those who care about their health and/or the health of our community: all health care professionals, educators, civic and church leaders, seniors, parents, and students.
